

SHOPPING

If you enjoy the hunt for second hand treasures and locally made or remade pieces, you'll feel right at home at Möllan. And with its markets, food court, art exhibitions and great sustainable shopping, mall Mitt Möllan is the one stop shop for the conscious consumer. Kajsa Blum is the one overseeing it all. Her own go tos? "Myrorna at Triangeln for jewellery, they have the best necklaces. For sequins, Beyond Retro Outlet at Mitt Möllan is unmatched, as is Phoenix and Friends for the always so desirable perfect pair of jeans."

A GUIDE TO MÖLLAN

CULTURE

Moriska Paviljongen, or Moriskan, in Folkets Park opened in 1902, hosting entertainment and debates until the 1970s. After reopening in 2011, it's become a cultural hub celebrating diversity and inclusivity. It's a hotspot for concerts and dance-all-nighters in winter, and in summer, the yard transforms into a lush beer garden. "Moriskan has a warm atmosphere thanks to our visitors," says Felicia Fredriksson, Head of Program and Marketing. When she's not at Moriskan, she enjoys watching films at the Panora cinema, exploring experimental art at Galleri FRANK or hunting for limited sneakers at South Soles. "I love the variety of Möllan – the mix of people and the constant energy. The left-wing values and strong legacy of the Swedish labor movement have shaped the area's unique character."

Be Here Then – see Möllans history

Möllan is a Malmö district known for its diversity, centred around Möllevångstorget. The square, named in the 16th century, got its name from the many windmills that stood there – mölla means mill. It is the ultimate watering hole for Malmöites and tourists alike. Reminiscing the working class quarters, this is where most protests start or finish, and a few socialist ministers have called Möllan home. Today, you find anyone and everyone having a cup of joe at the coffee shop or a pint at the bar regardless of the day or weather. At the open air market, closed only on Sundays, you can find most fruits and vegetables known to man. Fancy a meal? Choose from Indian, Japanese, Eritrean or Greek, or something else to your liking. Afterwards, why not stroll in Folkets Park, get some culture in by visiting a gallery or, better yet, just sit down for a moment, and relish in the hustle and bustle found at Möllan. You have not seen Malmö unless you spend a few hours here – and you will not regret it. (And if you want to dive even deeper into Möllan's past and present, be sure to download the app Be Here Then!)

NEIGHBOURHOOD KNOWLEDGE

You will have the best Möllan experience after having lived in the neighbourhood for a while. The next best? Having someone else who lives here to show you. This guide is a pocket sized version of that person – and this segment in particular has all the cherries picked.

ALL THAT JAZZ

Jazz nights are held at both Asino (wine and pasta) and Opopoppa (pizza and beer) on a regular basis. As are quiz nights! (Not into contrabass and saxophone? Krøl Bar has a strict no jazz policy.)

CHERRY ON TOP

In summer time, do not miss the soft serve ice cream with almond flakes or maraschino cherries – or both! Why choose? – at Kaffebaren. And if you see a wagon with Folkets Pops on, you're in for the best locally produced popsicles you've ever had.

DAWN DAMAGE

One too many (cheap) beers at Vegan bar? Steer your way towards a shawarma. The best one? Depends on who you're asking, but it's sure to be found at Möllan. Gyros Pita also does the trick, even if you prefer veg – just swap the meat for creamy, tangy feta and you're set.

TOMATOES AT 3 AM

Möllan is full of food markets, here you'll find ingredients from every corner of the world. Forgot to buy tomatoes for tomorrow's breakfast or need a midnight snack? Don't worry, Sumér Livs is open 24/7. And if you're craving olives (during regular business hours) don't miss Iskander, where you can buy them and much more by weight. This is also where you find your labneh, pickles, and dried fruits. Nibble away!

EAT & DRINK

Pasta? BBQ? Curries? Pizza? Ramen? Shawarma? Open face sandwiches? Everything with fries on the side? No problem. Many might argue that food and beverages is what Möllan does best. And one place in particular is synonymous with Möllan: Nansis. The small bakery serves coffee and delicious sweet treats, but it's for the sesame flatbread people queue. According to owner Hussein Javadi, they bake around 400 on an ordinary day. A customer waiting in line says the best thing about Möllan is that that's where Nansis is – for Hussein, it's the diversity: “If you've seen Möllan, you've seen the world.”

FIKA

As a fika lover, you won't be disappointed in Möllan. Kaffebaren på Möllan is open 364 days per year, and is easily recognised with its red benches outside. Here, artist Magda Lundberg often sits and sketches her popular cartoon Fåglarna. “It's a fast track to the real Möllan, sitting here, looking out over the square. You want to return day after day, for the coffee, for a chat with the amazing staff, and to people watch”, she says. Just a stone throw away, you'll find Farina, an Italian-French bakery with both maritozzi (cream filled brioche) and a mouth-watering croissant-ish: sugar dipped and filled with a lemon curd.
